Frankel he ought to send for Charlie Smith.

"I had heard of Charlie Smith." said Frankel, "and that he often helped poor people, so the next morning I told Hussey to go and get Charlie Smith. I saw Smith in court, and after my case had Smith in court, and after my case had some up before Justice Koch, I saw Charlie Smith go up behind the desk and whiaper to the Judge. He put me under $1,000 ball.

"I saw Smith afterwards and asked him if he wouldn't go on my bond, as it was a put up job on me, and he said he could not afford to go on the bond of a man charged with robbery, and walked away."

Semi-ors Cantor and Pound came in during the examination of Frankel, and at its close Mr. Goff brought up the matter of the alleged fraudulent registration from Blackwell's Island, and said that he had written letters both to the commissioners of Charites and Correction and to Supt. Byrnes. Both these letters were printed in the morning papers. Ing papers.

Mr. Goff explained to the Committee how these lilegal voters were registered, and said it had an abuse of many years standing. Every year attention was called to his violation of the law, and complaints were made of the false registration bractised should be a second to his violation of the false registration bractised should be a second to his violation of the false registration bractised should be a second to the seco

"I have only to say that the fraudu-lent registration in that district, the Six-teen of Assembly District," said Mr. Goff, has already comenced this year.

Mr. Goff had a letter from Supt. Brynes in reply to the one which he sent yes-teriday, which he read to the Committee.

The Buperintendent said that he had in reply to the one which he sent yesterday, which he read to the Committee. This Superintendent said that he had taked such "means as he had at his command to prevent fraudulent registration in the Sixteenth Assembly District, and was prepared to arrest any persons so relatering."

I wish to say here, "continued Mr. Goff, shand i have evidence to prove it that 1400 rangrants, were recently picked up in this city and sent to Blackwell's Island is the public institutions there, and that of these more than 800 were resently released on the sole recommendation of a clerk in the Department of Charities and Correction, and without any judicial review."

Mr. Goff also promised to take up the sucception of loading-house floaters. In regard to the suggestion of the Chairman, that the counsel of the Committee should go higher up in its investigation of official corruption, Mr. Goff made a long speech, calling attention to the fact that when the Committee had begun its investigation, it had struck at the top, and made a very perceptible then in what appeared to be a solid brass wall.

It had seemed best however, to wall. It had seemed best however, to arouse the interest of the people in the exposur of official corruption, and for this reason the witnesses had been called from among the victims of the corrupt system. That this had been a wise course, he said, had been demonstrated by the very large number of witnesses which had been secured, and the vast amount of valuable testimony which had been given.

The reign of terrorism had been broken for the first time in the history of the city, the people had become arougd. So many witnesse had come forward that it was not possible to examine them all, but it was necessary to utilize as many as possible, so they were placed upon the stand.

"We had to take these people when we could got them," said Mr. Goff, "or we might have lost them altogether, and we knew that we could call on the heads of departments at any time. They were always at our command."

"We thought we were doing our duty by thus naswering the paper, and that we have given evidence of our sincerity I think alarer is abundant proof.

Mr. Goff chosed his remarks by paying a glowing tribute to the new spapers of the city, which, he declared, had rendered, the most valuable assistance in furthering the progress of the investigation by apphoising the hands of the committee and its counsel.

Chairman Lexon said that he had no fault to find with the counsel for the manner, in which the investigation was being connected, but estimate the remarks the progress of the investigation was being connected, but estimate in bringing up the said that he had no fault to find with the counsel for the manner, in which the investigation was being connected, but estimate in bringing up the sample and that in due time light would be shed into every nook and corner in the Tombs since last August, was the next witness. He described how Keeper Leach, of Jefferson Market prison, had tried to force him to engage Pennangt & Gallin as counsel. When he setured is liver, Leach swore at and cursely him furfously.

He also had to pay Leach $1.50 an hour for the privilege of walking in the corridor. On frequent occasions he had been able tooltain liquor from the keepers in the Lefterson Market prison. The keepers would send out for it and pass it into the cell.

Senator Lexow asked him if would allow the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Committee to go through the rooms of his lodging-house and get a list of the lodgers, and Quinlan refused to go this. "We!, we'll see about that," said Mr. Goff, and he sent for the Captain of the Elizabeth street station.
